"The best you've got."
"Do you wish to look at the card?" "No. Just give us the best you've got.

The waiter obeyed, and all agreed that it was very good indeed. Late that night the host called for his bill. He had figured his bill at about $60. It proved to be more than "What's this?" he asked. "There's some mistake here." They gave him an itemized bill just to satisfy him. He ran his eye over it until he came to the "white wine" item, and then Female Bootblacks In France. In Paris and other large towns of France female bootblacks are increasing in numbers. They wear a peculiar garb—not unlike that of the Sisters of Mercy—which renders their appearance rather neat and attractive. Their coquetry easily betrays their secular habits and calling. Not a few among them attend to their work with gloved hands.—Baltimore Sun.

SOME FISH.

They Came Piling in so Fast That They Nearly Sank the Sloop. "It is well worth a trip to the North Carolina coast," said Colonel Keogh, of that state, "to see the operations of one of the big seines in the waters along Albemarle or Pimlico sounds. Some of these big nets are fully two miles long, and so heavy that they are drawn ashore by steam power. And what enormous takes are frequently made-barrelfuls of herring at a single haul! Yet I don't know of but one man who has made much money in the business. The very abundance of the fish makes them chesp, and railroad facilities in that section are limited." "Abundant as the finny tribe is in the North Carolina waters," said Colonel Walter B. Evans, of Florida, who had been listening to Colonel Keogh, "it is not till you get down into my country that you find fish in multitudinous quantities, so to speak. In the Indian river, particularly, they are far too thick for the fisherman and often embarrass him with their redun-

"I shall never forget one experience I had down there. It was a dark night and a party of us were on the river in asgood-sized sloop after big fish. We had not been long anchored when the light in our boat began to attract schools of mullet, and into that craft they jumped by the hun-dreds. Yes, thousands. Well, we stood it for awhile, till the burden got too heavy, and we felt the boat beginning to sink. Then hurriedly blowing out the lights and pulling anchor we made for the shore. I am positive if we had let these fish keep on piling into us they would have carried all hands down to a watery grave. As it was we made a narrow escape."

VACCINATION AND PRAYER. A Little Tot Who Had Full Faith in a Combination of the Two.

Here is a little story, the incident occurring during a period when the town of Winsted, Conn., had a small-pox scare. It happened when things were at the worst, and it occurred in the household of Benjamin Richards. Mr. Richards has a little daughter, and she took it to heart quite forcibly because the churches were all closed, and so she dressed herself in some of her mother's clothes one Sunday morning, and perching herself upon the stairs, proceeded to hold church services. The little tot was choir and soprano and preacher all in one. After calling upon Mrs. Howe to sing a hymn she personated a well-known vocalist and sang and then she did a little preaching and then made a prayer. The prayer was short and was as follows:

"O, Lord, make the small-pox go away. Don't let the small-pox get my papa or my mamma nor me nor any of us. O. Lord, we've all been vaccinated and it's working b-e-a-u-t-i-f-u-l-

1-y on all of us. Amen." We are pleased to state that the prayer was answered and that the little tot and all of her family came through the ordeal in good order. A WARM SEAT.

One Else Was Cool. In a party of strangers being taken through the Chollar workings, near Virginia, Nevada, was a girl who, when preparations were made to go down the incline, was assigned to the lower seat in the "giraffe." After the giraffe started the girl slipped down at the feet of her companions and Train. found a seat on something, the nature of which she did not stop to investigate. A short way down the in-cline, she remarked that it was getting warm. Further on she repeated the observation, and her companions remarked that they had not noticed it, while the miner who had the party in charge assured her that the incline was supposed to be cool. She continued to call attention to the heat, however, and at the station she scrambled out of the giraffe, exclaiming: "Whew! but it was hot in there!" The miner was ting on that gentleman's lantern." Took a Sitting Hen With Her. An Atlanta paper is credited with naving originated this story: "An old lady, living in Jackson county, who was possessed of a sitting hen, just hatching at the time, when she had occasion to go to Jefferson on urgent mystified, but casually looking at where she had sat, the light dawned upon him, and he electrified the entire party by dryly remarking: "It's no wonder you were warm; you were sit-business, and having no one to leave in charge at home, put the pipped eggs and hen in a box of hay and took them along with her on the train. Before she reached her destination the eggs all hatched, and she returned home next day with a fine brood of young chickens, which may boast of the distinction of having been hatched on a passenger train running at full speed." A Birth and Death Coincidence.

John Sobieski, the king of Poland, who immortalized his name by "delivering Vienna from the Turks," was born June 17, 1629, and died on June 17, 1686, being exactly 67 years old. There are two other queer coincidences in connection with Sobieski's life: He was elected to the throne on June 17, and there were terrible tempests all over Europe on the day of his birth and also on the day of his death. With a Single Bullet.

Three rabbits were recently killed with one bullet. The first rabbit, fifty yards away, was shot with a 300-bore Martini rifle through the shoulder; the second, about two yards further, through the neck; and the third, about three yards from the second, through the head. Two were full-grown, and the third nearly so
